

ANNOUNCEMENT

SP Group establishes SP Meditec to strengthen its position as a subcontractor in the medical industry and to enhance the development of proprietary products within SP Medical.

Effective January 7, 2025, SP Group will consolidate the majority of its activities in medical injection moulding, assembly, and customer development projects into a new organization: SP Meditec.

This strategic move aims to bolster our position as a supplier to the medical segment and improve our ability to deliver innovative, customer-tailored solutions.

At the same time, we emphasize that the existing operations of SP Medical will continue to play a central role in SP Group's medical strategy. Moving forward, SP Medical will focus exclusively on the sales, development, and production of its proprietary products, including guide wires and related items.

SP Meditec – Medical Injection Moulding, Assembly, and Development for Customers

Meditec Plaststøbning A/S in Helsingør will be renamed SP Meditec A/S. Injection moulding activities from SP Medical in Karise and Poland will be unified under one organization specializing in medical injection moulding, assembly, and customer development projects. By pooling resources and expertise across locations in Europe and the U.S., we will create a more efficient and cohesive effort that benefits our customers through improved quality, flexibility, and service.

SP Medical A/S – Sales, Development, and Production of Proprietary Products

SP Medical will increase its focus on the sales, development, and production of proprietary medical products. This includes our renowned Guide Wires, DivibaX, Swabs, and Test Kits, which will continue to be integral to our medical business. This focus will allow SP Medical to better drive innovation and development, thereby strengthening SP Group's portfolio of proprietary products.

Thomas Bo Iversen will continue as Director of SP Meditec and will lead the organization toward new growth opportunities in close collaboration with our customers and partners. Mogens Laigaard will remain Director for SP Medical, ensuring the ongoing development and refinement of our proprietary medical products to meet future demands.
